THE IRE

THE INSTITUTE OF RADIO ENGINEERS, founded through the efforts of three far-seeing engineers, Dr. A. N. Goldsmith, J. V. L. Hogan, and R. H. Marriott, has grown from its original roster of less than fifty members gained by the merger of two small professional societies in 1912, to an international membership of 60,000. It is an incorporated, nonprofit organization established for the advancement of the theory and practice of radio and electronics, including allied branches of engineering and the related arts and sciences.

The IRE publishes technical papers, reports and general information of interest to electronics engineers. It holds meetings and discussions throughout the United States, Canada and several countries abroad, and maintains committees for collating and standardizing the results of technical research and development. Among the fields covered are radio communication, sound broadcasting, television, marine and aerial guidance, electron tubes, radio-frequency measurements, engineering education, electron optics, sound and picture electrical recording and reproduction, power and manufacturing applications of radio and electronic technique, industrial electronic control and processes, medical electrical research and applications.

The management of the Institute of Radio Engineers resides in a Board of Directors selected from the body of Fellows and Senior Members, acting through an Executive Committee and the officers of the IRE. The President and Vice-President are elected annually from the body of Fellows and Senior Members.

Membership in the IRE is contingent upon experience and achievement in radio engineering and allied fields. The grade of Fellow is one of distinction, and appointment thereto by the Board of Directors is made on the basis of eminence and distinguished service. The grade of Special Member is similarly conferred by invitation only. Other grades—Senior Member, Member, Associate, and Student—are filled from applicants whose age, experience and attainments conform to the respective requirements set forth in the table below and in the Constitution.

COMMITTEES*

The IRE has established some twenty-five technical committees covering specialized fields of radio engineering. Through the IRE, these committees (sometimes in collaboration with technical committees of other engineering societies) publish standards of accepted definitions of terms, and methods of measurements of physical quantities used in radio engineering practices.

CONVENTIONS AND MEETINGS

Each year the IRE holds a national convention for its entire membership, during which technical papers are presented and the latest electronic equipment is displayed. Numerous additional meetings, many with exhibits, are held throughout the year by IRE Regions, Sections and Professional Groups.

SECTIONS†

Sections have been established throughout the United States, Canada, Territory of Hawaii, Egypt, Israel, Japan, Argentina, and Brazil, to hold meetings under the aegis of the IRE. The Sections of the IRE are grouped into eight Regions, and each Region is represented on the Board of Directors by a Regional Director elected bi-annually from, and by, the membership of the respective Region.

PROFESSIONAL GROUPS†

To serve many special fields of interest, Professional Groups have been formed on an Institute-wide basis in each of twenty-six technical fields. These Groups organize meetings and conferences on subjects of special interest to their members. They issue technical publications called TRANSACTIONS to provide a means for ensuring their membership proper coverage of their fields in the publications of the IRE, and for promoting recognition of their leaders among the IRE membership at large.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE IRE

PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE

Perhaps the most important single activity of the Institute is the publication of a technical journal. The first issue of the PROCEEDINGS OF THE INSTITUTE OF RADIO ENGINEERS appeared in 1913. Established first as a quarterly, for the last thirty years PROCEEDINGS has been published in twelve numbers annually. In 1939, the name of the journal was shortened to PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE.

THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE is the official publication of The Institute of Radio Engineers. In it appear technical papers, discussions, and communications approved by the Editorial Reviewers and Managing Editor, as well as IRE Standards prepared by the technical committees.

To date, about 5,700 papers on advanced research topics have been published in PROCEEDINGS, including mathematico-physical analyses of engineering problems, current engineering developments of equipment and methods, and commercial applications of engineering methods and products, historical papers, and tutorial papers covering specific aspects of radio and electronic engineering. In addition, space is devoted to news, book reviews, new products, and abstracts of papers published in technical publications the world over. The PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE is mailed gratis to all members; subscription price to nonmembers is $18.00 per year, $19.00 to foreign destinations.

IRE TRANSACTIONS

Each of the twenty-six IRE Professional Groups publishes its own technical publication, called TRANSACTIONS, covering developments of particular interest within its own specialized field. The TRANSACTIONS is sent free to all paid members of the Professional Group. Frequency of issue varies from Group to Group, and ranges from one to six issues per year.

IRE CONVENTION RECORDS

The IRE annually publishes two Convention Records, one containing the papers presented at the IRE National Convention in New York, and the other for the WESCON meeting on the West Coast. They are known as the IRE NATIONAL CONVENTION RECORD and the IRE WESCON CONVENTION RECORD, respectively. Each RECORD is issued in several Parts. All members of Professional Groups automatically receive a free copy of the Part pertaining to the field of their Group.

YEARBOOKS AND DIRECTORIES

The first Yearbook was published in 1914, the second in 1916 and then annually between 1926 and 1932. Yearbooks were then published in 1937, 1942, and 1946. With the 1948 Yearbook, annual publication was resumed. In 1950 its name was changed to "Directory."

STANDARDS*

Standardization reports have been issued since 1913. Early reports were confined to the definition of technical terms and standard graphical symbols. Current reports include methods of testing equipment and measuring electronics quantities, and letter symbols and mathematical notation. Starting in 1949, IRE Standards have been published in the PROCEEDINGS, rather than as separate reports, to make them available to all members at no extra charge. Also, they are available in reprint form.

*A list of Committees appears in the June and October issues of PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE.

†A list of Sections and Professional Groups and their officers appears bi-monthly in PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE.

*A list of available standards appears in the June and December issues of the PROCEEDINGS OF THE IRE.

No Regional Director shall have his term shortened by changes in Regions. Each Region shall have a Regional Committee whose duties shall include making at least one nomination for Regional Director from its Region during election years. In the event a Regional Director dies, is unable to serve, or is disqualified by removal from the Region, the Regional Committee shall appoint a Regional Director for the unexpired portion of the term. The organization and procedure of the Regional Committees for nominating candidates for Regional Director shall be specified in the Bylaws.

SEC. 2—There shall be an annual meeting of the Institute as soon as practicable after the annual meeting of the Board of Directors at which reports of the Secretary and Treasurer shall be presented.

SEC. 3—Meetings of the Board may be held at such times as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this Constitution and shall be held at such other times as any five members of the Board may determine, but only on notice to all members of the Board. The method of calling such special meetings shall be specified in the Bylaws.

ARTICLE VIII

SECTIONS AND OTHER GROUPS

SEC. 1—The Board of Directors may authorize the establishment of Sections and other groups of members for the purpose of promoting the interests of the Institute. The Board of Directors may, at its discretion, terminate the existence of any such group.

ARTICLE IX

AMENDMENTS

SEC. 1—Amendments to this Constitution may be proposed by means of a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors or by means of a petition signed by at least one hundred voting members. Such proposed amendment or amendments shall be submitted to legal counsel by the Board of Directors, and if, in the opinion of such counsel, they are in accordance with the laws under which the Institute is organized, a copy shall be mailed with a ballot to each voting member.

SEC. 2—Constitutional amendment ballots shall be mailed to the voting members at least sixty days before the date appointed for counting the ballots and the ballots shall carry a statement of the time limit for their return to the Institute office. The ballots after marking shall be placed in plain sealed envelopes, enclosed within mailing envelopes marked "Ballot" and bearing the member's written signature. Only ballots within signed outer envelopes shall be counted. No votes by proxy shall be counted. Only ballots arriving at the Institute office prior to the stated time limit shall be counted. The Tellers Committee shall count such votes and report to the Board of Directors at its next meeting. If the total vote be at least twenty per cent of the total voting membership and if at least sixty-seven per cent of all votes cast shall be favorable, the proposed amendment or amendments shall be immediately declared by the Tellers Committee to be adopted.

SEC. 3—Amendments shall take effect thirty days after their adoption but officers and officers-elect of the Institute at the time any amendment becomes effective shall continue in office until the end of the terms for which they were elected.

SEC. 4—Copies of the amendments shall be distributed to the members as soon as practicable after adoption.
